

PRESS RELEASE — FOR IMMEDIATE DISTRIBUTION

Belba Games Announces November 2 Release Date for Deadly Match, with Demo Featured in Support the Indies and Steam Next Fest

Belba Games is excited to announce that Deadly Match, a murder mystery set in the small modern town of Belba, will officially launch on November 2. Ahead of release, players will get their first hands-on experience through a fully playable demo featured in two major community events this October.

The Deadly Match demo will participate in Support the Indies, running October 12–18, giving creators and players an early look at the game’s investigative storytelling, branching dialogue, and atmospheric world. Immediately following this showcase, the demo will be part of Steam Next Fest, taking place October 19–26, where thousands of players worldwide discover upcoming indie titles.

These back-to-back events mark the first public opportunity to explore the mystery at the heart of Deadly Match and meet its cast of characters, including Liya the journalist, our protagonist.

Belba Games invites players, press, and content creators to experience the demo during both events and follow the journey toward the full release on November 2.
